Process

- The design process will begin with a 15-20 minute phone consultation where you will discuss your vision with The Chief Designer. You are encouraged to send inspiration photographs that will clarify your design goals.
- We will schedule a 30-45 minute in-person consultation where you will be presented a garment sketch, fabric selection, measurements will be taken and a Q&A session will be conducted. The initial consultation must be in-person to assure all measurements are taken properly and the sketch is accurate to your tastes. - You will be allowed two revisions to the initial sketch. One may be completed at the first in-person consultation, if additional revisions are needed, The Chief Designer will advise how much time is needed. Please keep in mind your garment due date, as we do not allow custom request less than 3 weeks in advance of your due date.
- Once your sketch is approved, pricing will be advised and a 50% non-refundable deposit is due. Sourcing and construction will begin after your payment is received without exception.
- We require at least one scheduled garment fitting before your garment is considered final. Additional fittings due to style changes can be scheduled per our fee schedule and Chief Designer availability. If you are unable to schedule your fitting, we will need your written authorization along with your final payment to approve your garment.
